Governor Davis Names Road Board

Governor Davis announced today the appointment of a board of road construction to advise in the adoption of a good roads program for Virginia.

The other members of the board are Thomas E. Winston, of Middleburg, a member of Winston and Company, contractors, of Richmond; Senator J. E. West, of Suffolk, a member of the Senate committee on roads and internal navigation; Homer L. Ferguson, of Newport News, president and general manager of Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company; Rufus Harrison, of Belvidere, president of the Southern Railway Company; Wade H. Massey, of Washington, Va., a prominent farmer of Rappahannock county, and a member of the Executive committee of the Virginia Good Roads Association; and C. L. Bentley, of Roanoke, Secretary of the Roanoke Trades and Labor Council.

It is understood that Governor Davis has created this board in order to bring to the assistance of the Executive committee of the Virginia Good Roads Association, and C. L. Bentley, of Roanoke, Secretary of the Roanoke Trades and Labor Council.

Mr. James Marshall, of Big Stone Gap, Va., was a visitor to his old home last week. We were glad to see Jim looking so well.

Well, I heard a whippoorwill "whoo" on yesterday. It was slow, or you will play out too soon. On 28th of April to 10th of May is plenty soon. Now we hear that the Rain-bow Division of the Army was in the city on Tuesday.

The question of whether a special session of the General Assembly at this time will actually hasten the building of good roads throughout the State. It is understood, however, that the Governor would save the cost of an extra session of the General Assembly, if possible, and is opposed to increasing the tax burden upon the State is ready and fully prepared actively to launch at this time upon an extended road building program.

Hixburg
Rev. J. O. Leps filled his regular appointment in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning and preached a most excellent sermon to quite a large crowd.

And how very different this would be if we could only see the other fellow as his "You" and himself as little "I." When will that time come? Well, I may as well say, before we get the National highway.

And here I must say that the map of the country roads as published some time ago was indeed a "hoax." The map would have done all right if it had not had the highway located. And the apology offered by President Burke of the Road Association was accepted by us country boys good naturedly.

Everything looks so show that Spring has surely come. Wheat is looking fine. We are so glad to have Mrs. E. Marshall in our midst again.

Mr. Jim Bob Ford is still on the sick list, but is improving every day.

Miss Lelia Jones, who went to visit a sister in Richmond, herself now has the flu. We are sorry, but hope she will soon be able to be with us again.

Mrs. Nathan Marshall is in Lynchburg with her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Overton, who is in hospital there. The doctors say she is getting on nicely, after having an operation performed.

Now a certain man has changed his views and says for the road should go through the county north of Hixburg and by the old Surrender grounds. We are glad to see converts, even if re election is in order.

The Red House at Hixburg, occupied by Mr. Dennis Williams, caught fire on Thursday last and but for the heroic work of Mrs. Williams in securing a ladder and mounting the building with a pail of water, the building would have been lost before help could have gotten there. As it was, no damage was done other than the family being badly scared.

stops where my rights begin and as justice due the faculty and children and also for the reputation of our institution, not one alone should be returned by our county officials.

I heard a gunshot close by in a secluded wood. May I ask who will eat wild turkey? Squirrel, is it? Well, did you have my permission to hunt to say nothing of the law?

Mr. B. H. Burrell has moved to near Lowry, in Bedford county, on the farm of Mr. B. Coleman and will farm there this time.

Edmond Jenkins and his wife could not agree; so Edmond moved to Mr. J. T. Coleman's farm.

Mr. H. M. Marshall was in Lynchburg a few days ago buying goods.

I understand that Mr. Joel Watkins sold his river farm for over $20,000. A good farm it is, and sold to Appomattox men.

Death of E. A. Woodson
Died, at the home of his brother, J. N. Woodson, 608 South Pine St., Richmond, Va., Wednesday evening, March 10, at 6:20 o'clock, Ernest Alfred Woodson in the 31st year of his age.

He was born in Appomattox county, near Ross River, and was the youngest son of the late Jas. H. and Mattie Harris Woodson, prominent citizens of Appomattox. His mother having died when he was quite young, he was deprived of the motherly love and attention that is the fortune of so many others to enjoy. But under the wise counsel and care of his devoted father and older brothers, he grew up to be a model young man, possessing a noble character with a quiet but loving disposition, liked and admired by all who knew him.

After the death of his father, some years ago, he came to Richmond and engaged in the retail grocery business with his brother, J. S. Woodson. By strict attention to business, fair and courteous treatment to their customers, they established one of the best retail businesses in the city.

About three years ago "Alfred," as he was lovingly known, was stricken with that dreaded disease, tuberculosis, but with a brave heart and courage he fought it until two years ago his health began to decline so rapidly that he was forced to retire from active business, and upon the advice of his physician, he went West in hopes that the change of climate would improve him.

For a while he remained in Western California and then went to Arizona and New Mexico, where he was treated by some of the best specialists in the country, but with no avail. He gradually grew weaker until about a month ago he decided to return to Virginia to spend his last days. But being physically too weak to make the long journey alone, his brother, Holcomb, went to Phoenix, Arizona, and accompanied him home, where all that loving hands and skilled attention could do was done.

He was a devoted brother, a staunch friend in whom the heart safely trusted, an efficient worker and a successful business man; and, above all, a Soldier of the Cross, and if the test of progress is to be known where the affections are placed, his life was a noble one. He was a true and God, then his faith was supreme.

He bore his sufferings without complaint.

He leaves the following brothers to mourn their loss who were devoted to his every care and need: J. N., J. H. and T. C. Woodson, all of Richmond. The funeral services were conducted from Pine Street Baptist church by the pastor, The Rev. Dr. Powell, where a large crowd of friends were present to pay their last respect.

The following were the pallbearers: R. J. Venable, H. J. Canfield, W. T. Coleman, Le Roy Lathan, J. W. T. Woodson, J. W. Roberts, Arthur Eddleton and Otis Britt.

The floral tributes sent by friends and loved ones were extensive and beautiful.

The burial was in Riverview Cemetery and as the day neared to a brightened close the spring docked earth canoe plied by a golden sky received within her bosom all that was mortal of our friend.

Circuit Court
Judge Hundley opened court on time and had a busy term. The Judge was looking well and appeared as vigorous as ever.

E. M. Drinkard resigned as Constable of Clover Hill District and upon his recommendation Mr. R. H. Browning was appointed for the unexpired term.

These verdicts are subject to the opinion of the Court on demurrer of evidentiary argument on said demurrer will be heard in Farmville on May 21st.

The Grand Jury: W. H. Ligon, N. Featherston, J. H. O'Brien, C. C. Garrett, E. R. Abbott, W. B. Davidson, R. A. Hamilton, D. P. Ferguson, A. H. Howerton.

by local applications, they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrh of the middle ear. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous membrane of the middle ear. When this inflammation is not removed, it will spread to the brain and cause insanity.
